Dated: Jun 02, 2010

Los Angeles, CA June 2, 2010 - Sharon Norris Elliott launched Life That Matters Ministries this week.

Life That Matters Ministries (LTMM) is a Christian organization that exists to encourage women to discover their life purpose and live up to their full potential. The five facets of Life That Matters Ministries achieve this goal through the use of conferences, seminars, books, a devotional blog and video pod cast, Bible study lessons, and speaking engagements. LifeThatMatters.net is the organization website.

AuthorizeMe Seminars © go beyond traditional writing seminars by offering participants with personal attention and exclusive industry insider tips. This division of ministry is categorized under “Writing That Matters” found on the LTMM website.

Milk & Honey Life Retreats are designed to minister to the whole woman of God- spirit, soul, and body. This division of ministry is categorized under “Rest That Matters”, found on the LTMM website.

Founder and CEO Sharon Norris Elliott states, “I want my life to count and I know you want yours to make a difference as well. I therefore encourage you to think Biblically, speak intelligently, work passionately, act responsibly, love unconditionally, and most of all, live significantly.”
